

Corrosion Control

Corrosion Control Consulting Services REKSOLINDO has been providing corrosion consulting, corrosion prevention and corrosion control services to business and industry. Our objective is to provide a quality service at a reasonable price, to develop practical solutions to clients' corrosion problems and to work with our clients as a team. REKSOLINDO has committed for the quality of its corrosion and failure analysis services and its cost-effective solutions. REKSOLINDO experienced, professional staff has specialized expertise in corrosion technology and investigating corrosion-related failures. We have investigated thousands of failures due to corrosion and/or mechanical means. The practical, experience-based backgrounds of our corrosion engineers qualify us to investigate a full range of corrosion problems across different industries. Our knowledge of corrosion spans both elevated-temperature and ambient temperature, aqueous corrosion mechanisms. If something has failed due to corrosion, we have probably seen it. REKSOLINDO professional staff is backed up by the full capabilities of a full service chemical, mechanical and corrosion testing laboratory. Additional benefits include our extensive company technical library and on-line database search capabilities.